Which cheese should I choose?

There are a surprisingly large range of things you can do with a bit of aged milk:

- Melting your cheese for a grilled toastie or sauce? Cheddar is a safe option, or try Raclette if you're feeling a little more gourmet.
- Grating over a hot meal? Parmesan is a big yes.
- Serving up with crackers? Soft cheeses like Brie or Camembert are delicious.
- Using it for a deep burst of flavour? Gouda is a good option – not as mild as a Colby or Cheddar, but not quite as hard as a Parmesan.
- Making a platter with raw cheese and fruits or wine? Aged cheeses like sheep's milk Roquefort or Manchego are your best bet.
- Making a cheese-based dessert? Marscapone could be the answer.
