

Do you need more than one oven?

Having two ovens can take your cooking and entertaining to new heights.

If you're renovating and planning your dream kitchen design, you can set yourself up well for your daily cooking needs and those big life events by rethinking the old single oven kitchen design and instead opting for dual ovens.

So, whether you're cooking for a small army, want to flex your cooking chops, or consider yourself a solo chef, we're going to help you find an oven solution that is right for you.

Do you need multiple ovens?

For those who want to be able to feed a crowd, many home cooks seek out multiple ovens for their cooking requirements. One of the great things about having two ovens is the increased cooking capacity, which is fantastic if you have lots of guests over or a big family.

For example, you might add two 60cm NEFF ovens side-by-side with each other for maximum cooking efficiency. Or you can consider stacking a 45cm oven on top of a 60cm one to make the most of your space.

Another option to think about is pairing a compact oven with a bigger oven – use the smaller one for daily use and the large oven for when you're cooking up a feast.

You can also have two different meals on the go at the same time. For example, you might prepare mouthwatering, crispy hasselback potatoes in one oven with the Circo Roast® function in use, while your lamb slow cooks away to perfection in a steam oven.

Another great thing about having two ovens is that you can avoid cross-contamination between dishes if you're cooking for someone with allergies.

You also get the added benefit of choosing what kind of features your additional oven might have. Maybe that's a combination microwave oven or an oven with an Added Steam function, which unlocks a whole new way of cooking.

Did you know you can stack your ovens on top of each other?

With the NEFF Flex Design range, you can stack your two ovens on top of each other for a seamless combination. This exclusive range allows you to create a kitchen design that's uniquely your own, no matter your kitchen's layout or style. You can choose appliance trims and handles in four different colours to make your kitchen truly yours.

Who should invest in two ovens?

Here's a quick list of the different type of people who should invest in two ovens for their kitchen:

- ¶ You have a large family and need a large cooking capacity
- ¶ You love entertaining and cook different meals at once
- ¶ You cook for people with allergies
- ¶ You'd like additional cooking functions

Do you need one oven?

If you don't have the space or your family set up doesn't need it, then NEFF has a range of single ovens that pack multiple features into one.

The NEFF Slide & Hide® oven gives you direct access to your delicious creations thanks to the fully disappearing oven door. The Slide & Hide® also comes with the Circo Therm® and Circo Therm Intensive® settings, which enables you to cook different dishes on multiple levels with an even distribution of heat so everything will cook evenly.

And if you wanted to say 'bye' to your bench-hogging steamer, then consider investing in a NEFF oven with Full Steam or Added Steam features. Or you can opt for a NEFF combination microwave oven instead, which (as the name suggest) combines a microwave with an oven for all-in-one functionality.

Who should invest in a single NEFF oven?

If you fall into one of the below groups, a single oven may be your best option:

- You have a small kitchen
- You don't cook for big groups
