DIFFICULTY: EASY

PREPARATION TIME: 3
HOURS

COOKING TIME: 30 MINUTES

SERVES: 12-14

Ingredients

For the cake:

6 large eggs, separated

200g caster sugar

1 tsp ground cinnamon

250g plain flour

1½ tsp baking powder

100ml whole milk

For the soak:

397g tin of condensed milk

410g tin of evaporated milk

200ml double cream

4 strong tea bags

For the icing:

500ml double cream

1 tbsp caster sugar

Method

Preheat the oven to 160 C Circo Therm®. Grease and line a 20×30 cm cake tin.

In a bowl, whisk the egg yolks with 100g of sugar for 5-6 minutes until pale, fluffy and almost doubled in size. In a bowl, combine the flour, baking powder, cinnamon and mix well. Add this flour into the egg yolks and fold it all in. Now, add the milk and fold it in gently.

In another bowl, whisk the egg whites until they have formed soft peaks. Slowly add 100g sugar to it, 1 tbsp at a time whilst continuing to whisk the whole time. Once it is stiff and glossy, add a ladle full of this to the egg yolk mix and fold it in. Now, you can add all of the egg whites into the yolk mix and fold it all in. Pour this into the prepared tray and spread evenly and bake for 30 minutes on NEFF Circo Therm® until a skewer inserted comes out clean.

Meanwhile, combine all the soak ingredients in a pan and bring it to a boil. Leave it aside to cool and infuse while the cake is baking. Once the cake is baked, use a toothpick or a skewer and prick all over the cake. Remove the teabags from the pan and pour all of the liquid over the cake. Leave it to chill for 3-4 hours or overnight.

Before serving, whisk the cream with the sugar and spread it over the chilled cake. Sprinkle some cinnamon on top to add the final touches and voila, there you have chai tres leches cake!

Store this in an airtight container in the fridge for 3-4 days.

1 tsp ground cardamom
